

Clements Parts Project

Site description: Date: March 2008
Client: Clements Support Services

- Website: www.clementsparts.com

This site was commissioned for a worldwide supplier of obsolete radar components. We not only constructed the site to provide information about the company but also integrated a fully searchable parts list. The parts list will contain over 700,000 entries. The site also contains a clever quoting system, this system is fully automated and also logs all entries into a database. The database can then be exported to Excel for indexing and monitoring progress. It will also be used for marketing purposes as it records each users details.

The guy's at Clements Parts also took advantage of our SEO option and now enjoy the number one slot on Google using thier chosen keywords. Take a look here...
