

FireBrush Hosting & Domain Name Service

There are two main requirements for a new site...

Firstly a Domain Name, this is the name you will call your site i.e. www.yourcompany.com

The second is a place to store your site so the public can view the pages. This is called 'Hosting'

Hosting We use a reputable, carefully tried and tested hosting company. We realise the importance of having your site available 24-7, we also know that a vast majority of companies cannot afford to be without email for any length of time.

We take hosting packages very seriously and have spent a great deal of time researching and reviewing different companies. We feel we have found the right balance between service, performance, features and of course cost! Domain Names We can register your domain name e.g. www.yourdomain.com for you. Try to think of something memorable, or use your company name where possible. As there are millions of names out on the web, there is always the chance that your name could be taken. In this event, we will help you to find something similar and make suggestions to add to the name but keeping your identity. However this is normally a rare occurrence. If you already have a name registered, all the better, we will just collect some information from you and point the name to the hosting server. If you require in-depth details on our hosting options and/or technical specifications, please contact us...