

Aerial Close Up Project

Site description: Date: October 2008

Client: Aerial Close Up Ltd.

- Website: www.aerialcloseup.co.uk

We were commissioned by local photography company Aerial Close Up Ltd to make over their existing site.

They were after a clean but image rich site with plenty of content to demonstrate the many uses for aerial photography.

As they had just won a major surveying contract from a large London based client, Aerial Close Up also needed an image library to store surveying images for their clients to view and download securely. The guy's at ACU were seriously impressed with our library solution as are their client. As a result of the superb functionality of the site, Aerial Close Up now have now serious interest from other London based surveying bodies.

This is just another example of how Fire Brush has once again helped it's clients win more business by getting on the web with the right image!
